Randel McGee and guitar-playing dragon “Groark” present “Dragon Tales” at the Modesto Library

Ventriloquist Randel McGee and Groark, his guitar-playing dragon, will present the rollicking and daring Dragon Tales at the Modesto Library on Saturday, Feb. 24, at 11 a.m.

This fast-paced, high-energy program offers a blend of stand-up comedy, witty banter, original songs, and hilarious storytelling.

McGee says stories and songs are a powerful means of teaching values and positive character traits, as well as motivating children to read and write. He uses stories to help his audience understand values such as courage, diligence, fairness, responsibility, compassion, and respect.

This is a free program, sponsored by Friends of the Modesto Library, however space is limited and same-day free tickets are required. Tickets will be available one hour before show time at the Children’s Desk at the Modesto Library, 1500 I St. For more information, contact the Modesto Children’s Library at 558-7810.
