Sheriff's Regional Training Division Offers Career Training in County Corrections

MODESTO, CA-Stanislaus County Sheriff's Regional Training Division is pleased to announce the start of a Corrections Academy designed to offer certification to individuals seeking a career as a corrections officer in a county custodial facility. The course begins with certification in 832 P.C. arrest and firearms scheduled to commence on September 17th.

The Corrections Academy is an 8-week, intensive program providing students with the certification and job skills needed for a successful career. "The Corrections Academy is a very important part of our growing training programs, and certainly an integral part of any sheriff's department throughout the state of California," said Sheriff Adam Christianson. "We hope they take from us a quality education that will benefit them throughout their career."

"Our Corrections Academy is one of the finest in the state, and our instructors are second to none," said Lt. Jim Gordon, Director of the Training Division. "Our program is intense and challenging, at the end we are proud to graduate some of the finest public servants capable of serving their community well."

For more information on the Corrections Academy, please contact Sgt. Pedro Beltran at (209) 525-4706 or visit www.sheriffstraining.org for registration details.
