Modesto, California – a Low Water Use Landscaping class is offered by University of California Cooperative Extension (UCCE) Stanislaus County Master Gardener Program on Thursday, June 27, 2019, from 6:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Agricultural Center, Harvest Hall Rooms D&E at 3800 Cornucopia Way, Modesto, CA 95358.

Learn how to create an attractive landscape that uses less water! We'll discuss how to reduce water use, which plants thrive in our area with less water, and how to design a landscape that has color year-round and is welcoming to bees, butterflies, and hummingbirds.

Instructors: Anne Schellman, UCCE Master Gardener Coordinator and Dr. Kari Arnold, UCCE Orchard Systems Advisor.

Sign up for this FREE class online at <http://ucanr.edu/lowwater2019> or call Anne Schellman at (209) 525-6862 to reserve your space.
