Carole Sund/Carrington Foundation Offering Reward in Missing Girl Case

Modesto, CA- The Carole Sund/Carrington Foundation is offering a $5,000 reward for information leading to the return of Erinn Rogers. Erinn went missing on January 8, 2007 from Modesto.

The Carole Sund/Carrington Foundation knows reward money can make a difference because The Foundation's reward money has already assisted in the location of nine missing persons, the apprehension of 38 murder suspects, and 3 kidnapers of young children, and one suspect charged with attempted murder of a peace officer.

To date the Foundation has paid a total of $272,600 in rewards to citizens who did the right thing by coming forward and sharing the information they had regarding these cases. We all have a responsibility to do our part to help make our community a safe place.

Carole and Juli Sund and Silvina Pelosso were the three women sightseers who were missing and later found murdered near Yosemite National Park in February of 1999. While they were missing, Carole Sund's parents, Francis and Carole Carrington, at the request of the FBI, posted rewards both for their safe return and for information leading to the whereabouts of their rental car. The Carringtons believe that the posting of these rewards and the media attention they received contributed to the car being located and gave them the first break in their case. They were thankful that they had the financial means to offer these rewards and it's because of this that they have started The Carole Sund/Carrington Foundation. This foundation was established to assist in cases such as the case of Erinn, which is a similar circumstance as the Carrington's in that Erinn is a missing person.

Anyone with information about this case is encouraged to contact Detective Watkins at (209) 525-7085.
