Stanislaus County Fish and Wildlife 2025 Environmental Award

The Stanislaus County Fish and Wildlife Committee is a volunteer organization dedicated to protecting and conserving the county's fish and wildlife resources. As part of its mission, the committee recognizes local environmental groups that have made a significant and positive impact in Stanislaus County. After a comprehensive review, the committee is proud to announce that the Stanislaus Wildlife Care Center has been selected as the recipient of the 2025 Stanislaus County Fish and Wildlife Committee Environmental Award.

The Stanislaus Wildlife Care Center has been a trusted guardian of native wildlife for decades. Serving as a lifeline for injured, orphaned, and displaced animals, the Center provides expert rehabilitation that strengthens local ecosystems and restores healthy wildlife populations.

Beyond direct care, the Center leads community education through outreach programs, public guidance, and hands-on learning that promotes responsible stewardship and coexistence with native species. Their strong partnerships with rehabilitation organizations across California ensure specialized care and contribute to statewide conservation efforts.

Powered by an extraordinary volunteer community, the Center donates thousands of hours to wildlife protection each year—reflecting the compassion, commitment, and environmental leadership that define Stanislaus County.

Honoring their dedication, collaboration, and enduring impact on California's native wildlife.
